Note 2 - Revenue recognition

Clinical Trials Assistance Corporation helps physician researchers recruit appropriate patients to participate in specific clinical research trials sponsored by the pharmaceutical industry. The Company recognizes revenue as it invoices its customers (physician researchers) on a "completed contract basis" based on the number of patients it generates to call the research center for an appointment to participate in a clinical study. Costs are recognized upon completion of the of the contracted recruitment campaign in order to match revenue generated from the campaign. For the nine months ended September 30, 2003, the Company recognized a total of $190,132 in revenue.

Note 3 - Related party transactions

Office services are provided by a director. Such costs are immaterial to the financial statements and, accordingly, have not been reflected therein. The officers and directors of the Company are involved in other business activities and may, in the future, become involved in other business opportunities. If a specific business opportunity becomes available, such persons may face a conflict in selecting between the Company and their other business interests. The Company has not formulated a policy for the resolution of such conflicts.

Item 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF PLAN OF OPERATIONS

Clinical Trials Assistance Corporation ("CTAL") or ("the Company") is a development stage company which plans to help physician researchers recruit appropriate patients to participate in specific clinical research trials sponsored by the pharmaceutical industry. In helping the investigative sites to recruit patients for clinical studies, by developing effective recruitment programs, which enlist patients to participate in the early stages of these studies, clinical recruitment companies help the pharmaceutical industry shorten its development cycles and reduce the cost for evaluating new pharmaceutical products. There are no assurances that the Company will be able to recruit patients faster than its competition.

Clinical Trials Assistance Corporation helps physician researchers find patients for ongoing clinical studies. These clinical trials would be conducted in a physician's office, hospital setting, or private clinic, who have separately contracted with a major pharmaceutical Company or U.S. Government agency to test developmental pharmaceutical products, which have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") for testing in humans.

In some case, the pharmaceutical companies themselves conduct clinical research studies. The Company plans to solely focus on patient recruitment for these clinical studies. Said differently, the Company helps these researchers find patients for on-going studies. The researchers screen and evaluate whether these patients qualify for these studies. The Company does not plan to involve itself with data analysis, regulatory services, quality assurance. The Company does provide consultation services to physicians upon request. This consultation service includes, but is not limited to helping research centers screen and retain patients more effectively. The actual clinical trials are performed at the investigative sites as approved by the FDA. The Company's business is currently focused on the U.S. markets.

In order to accomplish these objectives, the Company established a business development program with Eugene Boling, MD, a Board Certified Rheumatologist, located at Boling Clinical Trials ("BCT"), located at 8263 Grove Avenue, Suite 100, Rancho Cucamonga, CA 91730, who is also a director of the Company.

Through the Third Quarter ended September 30, 2003, the Company had the opportunity to expand its business recruitment activities at 27 clinical trials centers throughout the U.S. Most of the Company's business came through word-of-mouth referrals from medical centers conducting clinical trials for osteoporosis and arthritis studies.

Results of Operations

During the nine months ended September 30, 2003, the Company recognized a total of $190,132 in revenues. It is difficult to compare these figures to the same period last year, since the Company was first incorporated on April 22, 2002. For the nine months ended September 30, 2003, the Company generated $190,132 in revenues with cost of services of $43,286, general and administrative expenses of $113,088 with a net income of $33,758.

The major components to expenses faced by the company in its day to day operations includes developing databases of potential patients, based on demographic information, mailing programs and general administrative expenses. If the Company can maintain its profitability, the company will access salaries, rent, reimbursement for travel expenses and add additional personnel to the payroll. Management intends to continue minimize costs until such a time in its discretion it believes expansion would be prudent. One element in making this determination is positive cash flow on continuous quarterly basis. If or when the company is successful in achieving this continuous quarterly positive cash flow, it is likely that the company will consider expanding its personnel which will increase costs.

Plan of Operation

Management believes that the Company has enough funds to sustain itself for The remainder of the calendar year 2003. Management is still in the process of developing its business plan in seeking recruitment methodologies to recruit patients for other disease states than osteoporosis and arthritis. Management is exploring the patient recruitment of hypertension and diabetes patients.

Management currently anticipates that the month of December, 2003, will represent its lowest volume month. Many clinical trials are postponed during the holiday season, as patients pursue holiday endeavors, rather than participate in a clinical study.
