Item 8.01 Other Events.

As previously disclosed, on April 9, 2010, Halliburton Company, a Delaware corporation (“Halliburton”), Gradient, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and a direct, wholly-owned subsidiary of Halliburton, and Boots & Coots, Inc., a Delaware corporation (“Boots & Coots”), entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger.

Additional Disclosure

Halliburton and Boots & Coots are providing certain additional disclosure that supplements disclosure contained in the proxy statement/prospectus dated August 10, 2010 and previously mailed to Boots & Coots stockholders. The following additional disclosure should be read in conjunction with the proxy statement/prospectus, both of which should be read in their entirety. The additional disclosure is as follows:

The Merger — Background of the Merger

Discussions with Company A

The first full paragraph on page 41 of the proxy statement/prospectus describes Mr. Winchester’s recollection of his conversation with an executive of Company A that took place on January 19, 2010. The following paragraph replaces the first full paragraph on page 41 of the proxy statement/prospectus and has been supplemented to describe the recollection of the executive of Company A:

On January 19, 2010, an executive of Company A telephoned Mr. Winchester and again expressed interest in acquiring Boots & Coots. During their discussion and according to Mr. Winchester, Mr. Winchester stated that any proposal would have to represent a premium in excess of 70% to the current market price of Boots & Coots common stock (which was then $1.74 per share) to be considered seriously and that an all stock-for-stock transaction as had been suggested in the August letter was not likely to be considered attractive by the Boots & Coots board of directors. According to Mr. Winchester, the executive of Company A indicated a willingness to consider such a premium and some flexibility in the form of consideration in a potential transaction. According to the executive of Company A, however, the executive proposed an acquisition of Boots & Coots that would generate a price of $3.00 per share of Boots & Coots common stock, and Mr. Winchester did not state that any proposal would have to represent a premium in excess of 70% to the current market price of Boots & Coots common stock because such $3.00 per share proposal was in excess of 70% of the current market price of Boots & Coots common stock. In addition, although the executive of Company A recalls being asked whether an all stock deal was the only currency Company A would consider and telling Mr. Winchester that Company A would consider a stock and cash deal, or maybe even all cash, the executive of Company A does not recall that Mr. Winchester stated that an all stock-for-stock transaction was unlikely to be considered attractive by the Boots & Coots board of directors.

Also, the penultimate paragraph on page 41 of the proxy statement/prospectus states that, on March 3, 2010, Mr. Winchester informed a representative of Company A that management of Boots & Coots was focused on other matters at that time. The proxy statement/prospectus is supplemented to reflect that the conversation between Mr. Winchester and the representative of Company A took place on February 24, 2010 rather than March 3, 2010.
