Enclosed with this Schedule 14A is a revised Report Relating to Executive Compensation (the Report), together with various documents referred to in the Report. The only change to the Report filed by the Filing Persons on February 26, 2002 is the description on page six of the annual base salary and target annual bonus contemplated for Mr. Capellas.

The Filing Persons are filing the additional documents in response to misleading statements made by or on behalf of HP with respect to the Report, including statements made by HP to the effect that Mr. Hewlett is fabricating information solely in an effort to gain votes and statements made by HP's outside legal counsel to the effect that Mr. Capellas and Ms. Fiorina merely floated some general terms for future pay packages and that [t]hose early discussions did not include the specific figures Hewlett cited.

The additional documents include:

A side letter agreement from HP's outside legal counsel to Compaq's outside legal counsel that contains term sheets embodying the contemplated terms of the employment agreements for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas;

Term sheets that contain very detailed information relating to the contemplated employment agreements for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas;

Term sheets indicating that the total estimated current value of the stock options was $57 million for Ms. Fiorina and $38 million for Mr. Capellas;

Minutes of the September 3, 2001 meeting of the compensation committee of HP's board of directors which reflect the decision made by the compensation committee in favor of the employment contract for Mr. Capellas as presented to the compensation committee; and

Minutes of the September 20, 2001 meeting of the compensation committee which reflect that the compensation committee approved new employment terms for Ms. Fiorina.²

² As indicated in the Report: (i) the minutes contain an asterisk next to the approval of the employment terms for Ms. Fiorina, together with a notation to the effect that subsequent to the adjournment of the meeting, the compensation committee determined that it had not reached agreement on the pricing terms of the option component of the package and, accordingly, all components of the package, which are interrelated, would be reconsidered at a future meeting; and (ii) Mr. Hewlett, a member of the compensation committee, did not participate in any subsequent determination by the compensation committee and first became aware of the alleged determination after the compensation committee minutes were made available to the members of the compensation committee.

REPORT RELATING TO EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

I. INTRODUCTION

Walter B. Hewlett is a member of the compensation committee of the board of directors of Hewlett-Packard Company. He participated in each of the numerous compensation committee meetings and extensive discussions relating to the compensation packages contemplated for Carly Fiorina, HP's Chairman and CEO, and Michael Capellas, Compaq's Chairman and CEO, in connection with the proposed HP/Compaq merger.

Mr. Hewlett has repeatedly attempted to persuade HP to disclose the compensation packages contemplated for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas. Despite these attempts:

HP has repeatedly refused to disclose such packages;

HP has attempted to create a record to support its refusal to disclose such packages until after stockholders vote on the proposed merger; and

HP, through its outside legal counsel, has attempted to pressure Mr. Hewlett into keeping this information secret.

Mr. Hewlett strongly believes that the details of the compensation packages contemplated for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas are important to an investor's consideration of the proposed HP/Compaq merger, and that HP's stockholders deserve to know this information. The need for additional disclosure is particularly compelling in light of the fact that:

Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas are leading a massive promotional campaign, which includes in-person meetings with investors, in support of the proposed HP/Compaq merger;

HP has failed to disclose important aspects of the written record, including an undisclosed side letter agreement (entered into on the date of the merger agreement) between its outside legal counsel and Compaq's outside legal counsel;

HP has repeatedly changed the compensation-related disclosures contained in its own proxy statement; the agreement by Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas to decline retention bonuses has been widely publicized; and under the terms of the compensation packages that were being contemplated, Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas would have received compensation packages valued at more than $115 million.¹

¹ In evaluating the compensation packages for Ms. Fiorina and other senior executives of HP and Compaq, the compensation committee, including Mr. Hewlett, recognized that if the proposed merger were to occur, it would present enormous integration challenges that would require a significant commitment of time from, and the substantial efforts of, senior management. With the help of expert employee benefits consultants, the compensation committee attempted to develop compensation packages that would likely result in the necessary commitment from senior management.

II. HP S ATTEMPT TO HIDE THE BALL WITH RESPECT TO COMPENSATION PACKAGES

A. HP Has Failed to Disclose Important Aspects of the Written Record

The disclosure in HP's proxy statement with respect to executive compensation does not tell the whole story. It fails to describe the written record which reflects detailed terms of compensation packages contemplated for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas.

Merger Agreement. Section 5.12(c) of the Merger Agreement provides that: HP will negotiate in good faith with certain persons who are current senior executives of HP and Compaq who are expected to become (or continue to be) senior executives of HP following the Merger for such persons to accept the positions and the terms of employment previously discussed between Compaq and HP. (emphasis added)

Side Letter. The terms of employment previously discussed to which the Merger Agreement refers are contained in term sheets attached to a so-called side letter from Mr. Sonsini to outside counsel for Compaq. The side letter provided that For our mutual reference, I am attaching hereto term sheets embodying terms of the agreements previously discussed and to be negotiated in good faith between HP and the individuals listed on Exhibit A hereto, in accordance with Section 5.12(c) of the Merger Agreement.

Detailed Term Sheets. The attachments to the side letter include a seven-page term sheet dated September 4, 2001 with very detailed information relating to the proposed employment agreement for Ms. Fiorina, and a nine-page term sheet with very detailed information relating to the proposed employment agreement for Mr. Capellas. The term sheets include information relating to title, duties, term of employment, base salary, benefits, target bonus, equity compensation, including number of stock options, death or disability, change of control vesting and severance. The structure of the employee stock options, including exercise price and vesting schedule, were, according to handwritten notations on the term sheets, to be determined within the next seven days.

Compensation Committee Approval. On September 3, 2001, the compensation committee of HP's board of directors stated support for Michael Capellas contract as presented to the meeting. On September 20, 2001, the compensation committee of HP's board of directors discussed and approved new employment agreement terms for Carly Fiorina.

Subsequent Notation on Minutes. Subsequent to the September 20, 2001 compensation committee meeting, the minutes of the meeting were prepared. The minutes contain an asterisk next to the discussion of the employment agreements for the top twelve executive officers, together with the following notation: Subsequent to the adjournment of the meeting, members of the Committee determined that the Committee had not agreed on the exercise price for the options, specifically whether the performance-based blocks would be priced at FMV or premium prices. The minutes also state the Committee approved new employment agreement terms, effective on the merger for Ms. Fiorina. Following the statement of approval, another asterisk appears, together with the following notation: [a]s noted previously, it was subsequently determined that the Committee had not reached agreement on the pricing terms of the option component of the package. Accordingly, all components of the package, which are interrelated, will be reconsidered at a future meeting. Mr. Hewlett did not participate in any subsequent determination by the Committee and first became aware of the alleged determination that the previously approved employment arrangements were no longer approved after the compensation committee minutes were made available to the members of the compensation committee.

B. HP Has Repeatedly Changed the Compensation-Related Disclosures Contained in Its Own Proxy Statement

HP's First Position Relating to Executive Compensation. On November 15, 2001, HP first filed its proxy statement with the SEC. This version disclosed that HP is negotiating new employment agreements with, among others, Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas.

HP's Second Position Relating to Executive Compensation. On January 11, 2002, HP filed Amendment No. 2 to its proxy statement. In that amendment, HP changed for the first time, but not the last its disclosure regarding Ms. Fiorina's post-merger compensation. While the initial disclosure said HP was in fact negotiating with Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas, the January 11 proxy statement said:

HP plans to negotiate promptly following the completion of the merger new employment agreements with Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas.³

HP's January 24, 2002 SEC Filing Relating to Executive Compensation. On January 24, 2002, HP filed a letter with the Securities and Exchange Commission in which it disclosed that HP's full compensation committee had reported to the HP board that, while preliminary discussions had occurred regarding the executives' post-transaction employment agreements, no terms have been finalized and substantial work needs to be done with respect to performance-based compensation.⁴ The letter did not reveal that Mr. Hewlett, a member of the compensation committee, in fact had voiced his strong belief that the parameters of the compensation packages that were being contemplated for Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas were known to the compensation committee, and should immediately be disclosed to HP's stockholders because such information is important information that stockholders must have before voting on the proposed merger.

² Registration Statement on Form S-4, p. 9 (emphasis added).

³ Registration Statement on Form S-4, p. 9 (emphasis added).

HP's Third Position Relating to Executive Compensation. On January 31, 2002, in Amendment No. 3 to its proxy statement, HP changed the compensation disclosure yet again. This time, in addition to saying HP would not negotiate employment agreements with the HP and Compaq executives until after the closing of the proposed merger, the proxy statement disclosed that: (i) following execution of the merger agreement, HP and Compaq determined that it would be more appropriate for the compensation committee of the newly constituted board following completion of the merger to analyze, review and determine the appropriate structure and size of compensation packages for executives of the combined company and (ii) HP had determined that the employment terms previously discussed would not serve as a benchmark for any future terms.⁵ Significantly, however, the Merger Agreement still makes the previously discussed terms a benchmark in future negotiations because Section 5.12(c) of the Merger Agreement still obligates HP to negotiate in good faith for Ms. Fiorina and the other executives to accept . . . the terms of employment previously discussed between Compaq and HP.

C. The Agreement by Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas to Decline Retention Bonuses Has Been Widely Publicized

As demonstrated below, HP has touted, and the press has widely reported, the fact that Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas voluntarily declined millions of dollars in retention bonuses that would be paid if the proposed merger were completed. At the time the press first reported such fact, HP's proxy statement stated that HP was then negotiating new employment agreements with Ms. Fiorina and Mr. Capellas. To explain the executives' decision to decline the retention bonuses [b]oth companies said the CEOs wanted to avoid the appearance of conflicts of interest as they urge on the deal's completion. HP, however, has failed to disclose, among other things, that the total value of Ms. Fiorina's contemplated compensation package was far in excess of the value of the retention bonus that she purportedly declined to accept.

⁶ Associated Press, 1/14/02, see also, Dow Jones International News Service, 11/16/01 (H-P said Fiorina declined to participate in the retention program to avoid a possible conflict of interest), Associated Press, 11/16/01 ([b]oth CEOs wanted to avoid the appearance of potential conflicts of interest, according to company officials).

Edgar Filing: HEWLETT PACKARD CO - Form DFAN14A

In all versions of the proxy statement HP has filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, HP has stressed that Ms. Fiorina declined to accept the right to participate in [the retention bonus] program under which she would have been entitled to receive . . . a total of $8.0 million and that Mr. Capellas similarly declined to accept more than $14 million in retention bonuses⁷;

The Associated Press reported that the disclosure of [Fiorina's and Capellas's] decision comes at a time when both companies are fighting to hold together the $23.7 billion deal amid opposition . . .⁸;

USA Today noted: Fiorina and Compaq CEO Michael Capellas turned down $8 million and $14.4 million in bonuses, respectively, to avoid conflict⁹;

Dow Jones ran the headline: H-P, Compaq CEO's To Forgo Retention Bonus If Deal Is Done

The San Jose Mercury News reported: Fiorina was offered $8 million but declined . . . Compaq . . . offered Michael Capellas $14.4 million but he also declined. The companies didn't disclose when or why the CEOs declined the payments¹⁰;

The New York Times reported: in an apparent gesture of faith in the merger, Carleton S. Fiorina, the chief executive of Hewlett-Packard, and Michael D. Capellas, the chief executive of Compaq, chose not to participate in the executive retention program¹¹;

In January 2002, HP filed an updated proxy statement which reiterated the CEOs' decision to forgo the retention bonuses; predictably, reports of the forgone bonuses proliferated yet again¹²; and ⁷ See, e.g., Registration Statement on Form S-4, filed 11/15/01, pp. 64, 66, Registration Statement on Form S-4, filed 2/5/02, pp. 83, 86.

⁹ USA Today, 12/4/01.

¹⁰ 11/16/01.

¹¹ 11/16/01.

¹³ For example, the press reported: H-P Chief Executive Officer Carly Fiorina and Compaq Chief Executive Michael Capellas have declined the retention bonuses, according to the [January] filing (Dow Jones International News Service, 1/15/02); HP Chief Executive Carly Fiorina [has] turned down a merger-related bonus package that would have been worth $8 million, and . . . Compaq CEO Michael Capellas forfeited a $14.4 million plan. Both companies said that the CEOs wanted to avoid the appearance of conflicts of interest as they urge on the deal's completion (Houston Chronicle, 1/14/02); HP President and Chief Executive Carly Fiorina, who has come under fire for championing the merger, and Compaq CEO Michael Capellas, will not take part in the retention plan (Reuters, 1/15/02); Hewlett-Packard Co. Chief Executive Carly Fiorina hoped to appear above the fray when she turned down an $8 million retention bonus linked to the company's planned merger with Compaq Computer Corp. (Dow Jones News Service, 1/18/02).

On January 29, 2002, HP again referred to Ms. Fiorina's decision in its Form 10-K filed with the SEC¹⁴; additional reports in the press soon followed, including this observation from Bloomberg: Fiorina and Capellas have, graciously it seems, exempted themselves from the goodies.¹⁵

III. CARLY FIORINA AND MICHAEL CAPELLAS MAY RECEIVE COMPENSATION PACKAGES VALUED AT MORE THAN $115 MILLION

The compensation packages that were being contemplated for Carly Fiorina and Michael Capellas include:

Carly Fiorina two-year employment contract

Annual base salary of $1.6 million

Target annual bonus of $4.8 million¹⁶

6,000,000 stock options with a total estimated current value of $57 million¹⁷

Michael Capellas two-year employment contract

Annual base salary of $1.6 million

Target annual bonus of $3.2 million¹⁸

4,000,000 stock options with a total estimated current value of $38 million¹⁹

¹⁴ Report on Form 10-K, p. 98.

¹⁶ Actual bonuses may be substantially higher than target bonuses.

¹⁷ As estimated in materials provided by HP to its compensation committee.

¹⁸ Actual bonuses may be substantially higher than target bonuses.

¹⁹ As estimated in materials provided by HP to its compensation committee.

IV. CONCLUSION

Mr. Hewlett believes that stockholders clearly deserve to know that the people who are actively promoting and recommending the proposed merger have interests in the merger that differ from interests of stockholders generally. He also believes that stockholders deserve to know the extent of those differences.

MINUTES OF A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE COMPENSATION COMMITTEE
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
OF HEWLETT-PACKARD COMPANY

September 3, 2001

Pursuant to notice, a special telephonic meeting of the Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors of Hewlett-Packard Company was convened at 7:00 a.m. PDT on September 3, 2001. Present and able to hear one another were Committee Chairman Phil Condit and Committee members Sam Ginn and Walter Hewlett. Also present were Carly Fiorina, Susan Bowick, Ann Baskins, James Otieno, Jackie Kane and Larry Sonsini.

It was announced that the purpose of the meeting was to consider retention agreements and employment contracts proposed in connection with the Compaq transaction. Carly Fiorina indicated that in particular the Committee was being asked to consider employment contract terms for Michael Capellas and retention packages and employment contract terms for other key individuals.

The Committee discussed the background for the proposed packages, competitive data relative to certain of the proposals and the appropriate size of retention packages. The Committee also discussed the use of cash versus equity or some combination thereof. It was agreed that the change of control features of Compaq's existing program necessitated some action. Larry Sonsini explained the proposed packages and agreements in the context of the overall negotiation of the deal and summarized the analysis that had been performed.

The meeting was suspended at 7:30 a.m. PDT so that the Committee members could attend the Board meeting called to consider the Compaq transaction. The Committee then reconvened at 8:30 a.m. Committee members expressed the view that it was appropriate for the Committee to review and act on the Capellas contract as it was closely tied to the overall merger agreement. The Committee's support for the retention packages was also confirmed. However, the Committee members indicated that they would prefer additional time to consider compensation metrics and other employment agreement terms for the other members of the senior team given the long-term implications of such agreements.

Following some additional discussion, the Committee stated its support for the Michael Capellas contract as presented to the meeting and approved cash retention packages for specific HP managers as described in the attachment to these minutes. It was further agreed that employment agreement terms for individuals other than Michael Capellas would be developed and reviewed by the Committee as important next steps.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, it was adjourned at 9:05 a.m.

MINUTES OF THE COMPENSATION COMMITTEE
OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS
OF HEWLETT-PACKARD COMPANY

September 20, 2001

Pursuant to notice, a meeting of the Compensation Committee of the Board of Directors of Hewlett-Packard Company was convened at the Company's offices at 1501 Page Mill Road, Palo Alto, California at 12:00 p.m. on September 20, 2001. Present were Committee Chair Phil Condit and Committee members Sam Ginn and Walter Hewlett. Also in attendance were Carly Fiorina, Susan Bowick, Ann Baskins and James Otieno, as well as outside counsel Larry Sonsini. Baskins recorded the minutes.

There being a quorum present, the meeting was called to order by Chairman Condit.

VI. Proposed Employment Agreements

Phil Condit rejoined the meeting.

James Otieno reviewed prior Committee decisions and discussions regarding guiding principles for employment agreements for the top twelve managers of the new HP. Otieno described design objectives for the agreements, including being competitive and performance driven and being able to withstand shareholder, employee and investment community scrutiny. Otieno then reported that he and his counterpart at Compaq had agreed on a conceptual framework, subject to discussion and approval by the Committee.

Larry Sonsini then described the Company's commitment, pursuant to a side letter signed by outside counsel, to negotiate in good faith employment agreements for certain named individuals.

Carly Fiorina rejoined the meeting at this time.

The Committee then discussed design issues associated with the stock option component of the employment agreements under consideration. Committee members expressed their continuing preference for linking option vesting to performance. Phil Condit rejoined the meeting, and the Committee reviewed possible performance metrics for the stock options. It was generally agreed that vesting should be tied to stock price growth in defined time periods and that value drivers associated with the deal would be an appropriate secondary metric. Discussion ensued regarding what share price growth should trigger vesting. To provide context for the discussion, Sam Ginn recapped discussions over the last several weeks regarding the structure of the options, which are expected to be granted at the close of the merger.

Following extensive discussion, the Committee developed a framework* for the options, a copy of which is attached to these minutes, which provides for a.) 25 percent of the option shares to time-vest over three years; b.) three-25 percent option tranches to vest upon the attainment of defined stock price targets in specified time frames; c.) with respect to each of the stock price performance-based blocks, a fail-safe vesting of 50 percent of the block if the relevant stock price target is not met but certain defined value creation metrics are met; and d.) the opportunity to recapture vesting for a block if initial stock price targets are missed but value capture metrics are met and the stock price meets or exceeds 200 percent of the option exercise price within four years. Larry Sonsini was instructed to propose the structure to the chairman of Compaq's compensation committee and report back on his reaction.

Additional features of the proposed compensation packages were discussed, with attention paid to the constituent components of the package. It was noted that the agreements, including the cash compensation levels and the option grants, contemplate a two-year term. The Committee also clarified its intent with respect to how retirement and other termination events would affect options granted pursuant to the agreements. It was agreed that options held for at least two years after grant and before retirement would continue to accrue, i.e., recipients would be treated as though they were still employed with respect to vesting and exercisability. However, a recipient who retires less than two years following grant would be eligible only for partial vesting.

Finally, the Committee asked that the staff reopen with Compaq issues associated with the lack of offset between severance and retention payments for its employees in the Tier two and below categories.

* Subsequent to the adjournment of the meeting, members of the Committee determined that the Committee had not agreed on the exercise price for the options, specifically whether the performance-based blocks would be priced at FMV or premium prices.

Fiorina then left the meeting.

VII. Fiorina Employment Contract

James Otieno outlined the terms of the existing employment agreement with Carly Fiorina. The agreement was reviewed in the context of the revised duties contemplated upon the close of the merger and in light of the Capellas contract. The Committee reviewed and discussed the base and bonus cash components, the possible bonus amounts at the aspirational level and the total package value. Following some discussion, the Committee approved new employment agreement terms, effective on the merger, including a base salary increase from $1M to $1.6M, an increase in the annual bonus at target to $4.8M and a new option grant of 6M shares on the terms reflected in the preceding discussion on options associated with employment packages*. The Committee also approved an $8M retention package consistent with the retention terms approved at the September 3, 2001 meeting of the Committee.

[Certain information has been omitted because it does not relate to the employment agreements contemplated for Carleton Fiorina and Michael Capellas]

* As noted previously, it was subsequently determined that the Committee had not reached agreement on the pricing terms of the option component of the package. Accordingly, all components of the package, which are interrelated, will be reconsidered at a future meeting.
