To: All WWC and WWLLP Associates
From: Global Integration Committee (John Haley, Babloo Ramamurthy, Paul Thornton and Gene Wickes)
Subject: Business Combination Update

As you know, on April 18 we announced the signing of a definitive agreement to combine Watson Wyatt & Company and Watson Wyatt LLP. We continue to make significant progress on the integration of the two firms and we wanted to give you a brief update.

Transaction Closing

On May 4, 2005 we filed our S-4 registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission. We are still working through final regulatory approvals, and our targeted closing date is now July 29, 2005. This close will occur after the necessary final approvals within both organizations have been obtained and Watson Wyatt & Company shareholders have voted. We will provide you with more information as it becomes available.

Global Strategy Group

The Global Strategy Group has collected input from the global practices, regional managers and associates in general on a range of strategic issues as diverse as the collection of market data to the handling of acquisitions. The Group presented an interim report to the Global Matrix Group in May on our brand (both internal application and external), market analysis, acquisitions and major opportunities. The report also covered outstanding implementation issues regarding strategic planning in the future. The Group's final recommendations will be presented for consideration by the Global Matrix Group in July.

Global Marketing Committee

The business combination presents us with a natural opportunity to highlight our global strengths. At the same time, it also makes sense to step back and review how we present the Watson Wyatt brand to the marketplace. Several efforts are underway along these lines:

Promoting our global strengths: When the business combination is finalized, we will immediately announce the news to the market through e-mail and special website features. But the real message we will want to get across is the unmatched global strength of Watson Wyatt. To that end, we are planning enhanced marketing activities aimed at multinationals. This includes improving on existing marketing efforts. For example, the international practice and the Research and Marketing functions are looking at ways to dramatically improve the dissemination of global news items to multinational clients. We also plan several website enhancements aimed at promoting our global know-how. Our Annual Report, due out in late October, will focus on this as well. Finally, we will conduct a special mailing to clients that will highlight our global strengths in a creative and engaging way.

Reviewing our brand: The business combination raises some practical issues around how we should present ourselves going forward. For example, how do we showcase insurance and financial services in our service descriptions around the world? But the business combination also gives us a chance to review our brand in a more strategic sense, ensuring that we are presenting a coherent and powerful global brand to the market. The Global Marketing Committee and others are working on a short- and long-term review of our brand. Input will include the results of our Associate Opinion Survey, the work of Global Strategy Committee and the results of our biennial global brand study, which is currently underway. We will share more news over the coming months.

The Watson Wyatt name: On completion of the business combination, all Watson Wyatt offices around the globe will continue to do business under the Watson Wyatt Worldwide banner. In legal terms the only change will be to the UK and Ireland territories which will change their legal entity name from Watson Wyatt LLP to Watson Wyatt Limited and Watson Wyatt (Ireland) Limited, respectively.

Updating business cards, reports and slide templates: For several months now, a special task force has been working to develop a globally consistent look and format for client work product and reports. The task force is also reviewing other client-facing materials, such as letters, PowerPoint presentations, meeting minutes, agendas and house style, in general. This includes business card and letterhead design, which we have evaluated both in the context of the business combination (good opportunity to consider changes) and in response to many requests to upgrade the quality of the business card stock. The result is a suite of fresh new designs within our existing brand treatment. We will phase the new designs in as needed and as existing supplies of branded materials run out.

Central Services Work Group (CSWG)

The CSWG has been busy moving towards a global structure for support functions. Last month, the Global Matrix reviewed the CSWG's progress and expanded its charter to include the identification of opportunities and methods to deliver services to the combined company in significantly different ways than are currently in place. The increased scope of the group's work is intended to ensure that we get to a best practices model that will improve efficiency and contribute to the combined organization's competitive advantage. Therefore, the group is working on creating a more integrated business service configuration that will allow for greater coordination among business service units and consistent client input. Once the group has finalized the structure recommendation, it will be presented to senior leadership for consideration. Communication and implementation of any organizational or process changes will take place following senior leadership approval, over the coming several months.

External Board Member

Edgar Filing: WATSON WYATT & CO HOLDINGS - Form 425

The Nominating and Governance Committee has accepted management's recommendation that the Committee begin a search for a qualified candidate to serve as an additional director who meets the independence requirements of the New York Stock Exchange listing standards. The new director is expected to have a background in Europe or the United Kingdom. Management provided the Committee with a list of nominees, proposed by Watson Wyatt LLP, whom the committee is considering in addition to other candidates. The search process for the new independent director has commenced and it is hoped that a nomination can be confirmed soon after closing, with a view to including the proposed independent director candidate on the slate of directors to be presented for stockholder approval at Watson Wyatt Holdings' 2005 annual meeting. Currently six of the nine board members are external. They are:

R. Michael McCullough - former chairman and CEO of Booz Allen & Hamilton

John Gabarro - professor at Harvard Business School

Linda Rabbitt - founder and owner of Rand Construction Corporation

Gilbert Ray - retired partner of the law firm of O Melveny & Myers LLP

John Shoven - a member of Stanford University's Economics Department and the Director of the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research

John Wright - executive vice president and chief financial officer of QuadraMed and a retired partner of the accounting firm Ernst & Young

In summary, we continue to be excited about the prospects for our combined organization and look forward to the opportunities that will be created through our global platform. You can expect to hear more information as we progress towards closing. Thank you for your hard work and continuing focus on providing excellent client service.
