Barracuda & Caratinga construction contract developments

(Rio de Janeiro, June 20, 2003). - PETROLEO BRASILEIRO S.A - Petrobras, (BOVESPA: PETR3 / PETR4, NYSE: PBR / PBRA, LATIBEX: XPBR / XPBRA), Brazil's largest oil and gas, petrochemicals and energy company, announces that, acting as construction manager for the special purpose project company which owns the Barracuda and Caratinga project facilities (which include P-43 and P-48 platforms), has reached a non-binding heads of agreement ("HOA") with Halliburton Company and its construction subsidiary, Kellogg Brown & Root, Inc. ("KBR"). The agreement is subject to the project lenders approval and final amendments to the existing contracts. The terms of the HOA include the revision of the original schedule, postponing the start of production until the end of 2004, agreeing to some extensions on project milestone dates, settling some disputed claims for US$59 million and providing for the parties to arbitrate their remaining claims under the arbitration rules of the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL). This arbitration procedure shall start shortly upon agreement of schedule among the parties.

Claims to be arbitrated include approximately US$375 Million from KBR, approximately US$380 Million from the project company and Petrobras and the liquidated damages against KBR that may be applicable under the EPC Contract due to delays. The Project continues under construction and is approximately 75% complete. The parties have had preliminary discussions with the lenders but no agreement as to their approval has been obtained.
