The information contained in this presentation is intended solely for the benefit of investors interested in the proposed acquisition of China Networks Media Ltd. (China Networks) by Alyst Acquisition Corp. (Alyst). Except where otherwise indicated, the information in this presentation has been provided solely by China Networks and Chardan Capital Markets.

Alyst, China Networks and China Networks International Holdings (CN International), and their respective directors and executive officers, and Chardan Capital Markets and its partners and directors may be deemed to be participants in the solicitation of proxies for the special meeting of Alyst stockholders to be held to approve, among other things, the proposed business combination with China Networks. In connection with the pending transaction, CN International has filed with the SEC a Registration Statement on Form S-4, File No.333-157026. The stockholders of Alyst are urged to read the Registration Statement and the preliminary proxy statement/prospectus, and, when available, the definitive proxy statement/prospectus, as well as all other relevant documents filed or to be filed with the SEC, because they will contain important information about China Networks, Alyst, and the proposed transaction. The final proxy statement/prospectus will be mailed to stockholders of Alyst after the Registration Statement is declared effective by the SEC. Stockholders will be able to obtain a copy of the definitive proxy statement/prospectus and any other relevant filed documents at no charge from the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's website (www.sec.gov). These documents will also be available from Alyst at no charge, once filed with the SEC, by directing a request to 233 East 69th Street, #6J, New York, NY 10021.

This presentation contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements are based on current expectations or beliefs, including, but not limited to, statements concerning the company's operations and financial performance and condition. For this purpose, statements that are not statements of historical fact may be deemed to be forward-looking statements. The company cautions that these statements by their nature involve risks and uncertainties, and actual results may differ materially depending on a variety of important factors beyond the control of Alyst and China Networks.

Who We Are

China Networks is a newly formed TV advertising network providing domestic and international advertisers access to viewers and stations across its member network in China

China Networks operates as the exclusive advertising arm for TV stations within its network

4

Business Model

5

Our Business Model

Through our unique Joint Ventures (JVs) we own and acquire long-term rights to local Chinese television station advertising revenues

Attractive JV purchase multiples

Strong organic growth and high margins

The Chinese government retains control of broadcast operations and media content while China Networks controls the advertising revenue engine

Our Beijing office serves as the headquarters of the network:

Enables international advertisers to have one-stop access to second and third tier television markets in China

Fosters monetization of station media libraries by enabling content commerce among network stations

6

Growth Rate

Poised to Exceed The Advertising Market

Organic Growth Rates (Currently 8%)

Network Effect:

Platform to increase advertising revenue from higher marginal ad-spend advertisers and international advertisers by affording them direct access to aggregated second and third tier television markets

Increase viewership by broadcasting higher rated programming available from member stations content libraries

Privatization Effect:

Previously state owned and managed stations are now managed by a commercial enterprise driven to maximize profits

Sales efforts enhanced with performance based compensation

Source: ZenithOptimedia Advertising Expenditure Forecasts, March 2008

7

Value Propositions for TV Stations

Immediately monetize the advertising portion of their business while retaining their split of future operating cash flows

Attract higher ad-spend advertisers

Maintain control over all broadcast operations and content decisions

Implement strategies to improve organic growth

Greater content access and choice

Invigorated sales force motivated by western-style compensation plans

Increase pricing pricing for national ad spots average almost 1,000 times higher than pricing for stations in secondary and tertiary markets

8

Business Model Strengths

Advertising revenue is secured for 30 years vs. industry standard short-term annual contracts

Strong financial incentive for TV stations to join the network

Platform to improve organic growth from network and privatization effects

Government retains station ownership, controls broadcast and content decisions and the business structure conforms with all existing regulations

9

China s Television Advertising Market

10

10

China's TV Advertising Market

Chinese TV industry is decentralized and highly fragmented

296 broadcasters operating 2,983 channels, reaching 96% of the population through terrestrial and cable¹

National and Provincial SARFT² own all assets and desire both immediate monetization and continuing participation in future performance improvements

Huge growth in advertising spending

Advertising growth set to continue at 10%+ per annum³

China will become the 4th largest advertising economy in the world in 2010 worth $24bn⁴

TV advertising is largest (~40%) and fastest growing medium in the market⁴

Deregulation just beginning

Industry has been highly regulated which has limited private investment and virtually precluded foreign investment

Deregulation (in advertising initially) creates significant opportunities for companies that can improve the profitability and efficiency of broadcasters

China Networks model builds on tested JV models

Highlights

TV advertising is the current fastest growing advertising category

Despite rapid growth, the overall Chinese advertising market is still small per capita by international standards

TV Advertising accounts for over 39.3% of total market share of advertising in 2007

2nd and 3rd tier market shows large growth potential

Investment Highlights

China's First TV Advertising Network

Profitable Established Business With Significant Scale

China Networks' initial acquisitions provide a stable profit base with large established audiences in each market.

Growing, Fragmented Market

China's advertising market was large ($16bn) in 2007 and is expected to become the 4th largest in the world in 2010 ($26bn), with TV advertising consisting of 35% of the total. ¹

296 broadcasters operating over 2,983 channels

Unique And Advantageous Structural Position

By securing exclusive contracts to provide advertising in multiple territories in partnership with SARFT, China Networks enters the market with a unique and sustainable competitive advantage, and a highly scalable business model.

Strong Growth Prospects

In addition to expanding the core ad-sales business through operational improvements and market development, as well as by growing the member network by acquiring stakes in additional territories, China Networks has a rich set of growth options including building an affiliate-network of partner-channels and additional content provision.

Seasoned Management Team

China Networks has a highly-experienced management team with solid experience and proven track record in the TV and advertising industry in China and internationally, as well as established relationships with national and local governments.

Performance Review

Second Quarter - Earthquake in May 2008

No advertising allowed on television for 3 days (from May 19th - 21)

TV advertising slots were reduced for more than 1 month. Time slots were reserved for earthquake news updates (from May - June) through a government mandate

Yunnan was one of the areas hit by the earthquake

Third Quarter - Olympic Games in August

Audience ratings for local stations temporarily dropped. The advertisers reduced local advertisement for that period

Non-sponsor advertisers postponed their advertising plan to avoid competition with the Olympic sponsors

China Networks took control of the TV station advertising October 2008
