EXPIRATION DATE TO JULY 30, 2004

Buenos Aires, July 15, 2004 Telecom Argentina S.A. (BASE: TECO2, NYSE: TEO) ( Telecom ) announced today that it is extending the expiration date for its Acuerdo Preventivo Extrajudicial ( APE ) solicitation period to July 30, 2004. The APE solicitation period will now expire at 3:00pm, New York City time, 4:00pm, Buenos Aires Time, on July 30, 2004, unless Telecom decides to extend the expiration date in its sole discretion. Telecom has been in discussions with an ad hoc committee representing a number of its institutional creditors as well as representatives of other creditor groups, including the Associazione per la Tutela degli Investitori in Titoli Argentini ( TFA ) in Italy, who have indicated their support for Telecom's debt restructuring proposal.

The extension of the expiration date to July 30, 2004 is in response to requests from several creditors for additional time to properly complete their letters of transmittal, which, in order to obtain judicial homologation of the APE, are required to be notarized, and if executed outside of Argentina, either apostilled in accordance with The Hague Convention, or consularized by an Argentine consulate, and returned to the settlement agent on or prior to the expiration date.

The terms of the APE solicitation and debt restructuring proposal are subject to the terms and conditions contained in Telecom's Solicitation Statement dated June 22, 2004, and as amended on July 9, 2004. The terms of the APE solicitation directed at holders of Telecom's bonds in Italy are set out in an Offer Document dated June 22, 2004 (the application to CONSOB for the publication of a supplement to the Offer Document is currently pending).
