NYSE Announces Third-Quarter 2005 Financial Results

Net Income Increased $19.9 Million Over Year-Ago Quarter

Edgar Filing: ARCHIPELAGO HOLDINGS INC - Form 425

NEW YORK, November 1, 2005 The New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) today reported net income of $22.0 million for the quarter ended September 30, 2005, compared to $2.1 million in the year-ago quarter and $13.0 million for the second quarter of 2005. These results reflect the restatement of NYSE's financial earnings dating back to fiscal year 2002 that were announced in the NYSE Group's Amendment No. 2 S-4 Registration Statement filed with the SEC on October 24, 2005.

Year-Over-Year Financial Highlights

Revenues, less Section 31 fees<sup>1</sup>, for third-quarter 2005 were $277.5 million, up $6.8 million or 2.5% versus the third-quarter of 2004. Regulatory fees increased $4.6 million or 15.9% to $33.8 million due to higher gross FOCUS (Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single Report) revenues reported for the period. Investment and other income was $24.5 million, an increase of $11.6 million or 90.4% versus the year-ago quarter. The increase in investment and other income was the result of a portfolio restructuring in December 2004 to higher-yielding investments combined with a higher-interest-rate environment, additional fine income and non-recurring insurance claims received during the third-quarter 2005. Listing fee revenue was $85.4 million, an increase of $2.6 million or 3.2% due to additional shares outstanding. Declines in data-processing fees of $9.6 million or 17.8% were the result of decreased third-party usage of services provided by SIAC.<sup>2</sup> Trading fees decreased by $3.1 million or 8.7%, even as NYSE average daily volume increased 14.7%. The decrease in trading fees is due to a one-time reimbursement of $2.4 million during the third quarter of 2005 and certain pricing caps being met by members.

Expenses were $240.6 million, down $27.9 million or 10.4% from third-quarter 2004. The decreases were due to reductions in professional services of $6.9 million or 18.2%, systems and related support of $4.1 million or 12.5%, and compensation costs of $11.4 million or 8.6%. These decreases were driven by cost-savings initiatives within NYSE including reduced spending in general and administrative expenses, down $11.1 million or 42.9%. In addition to the costs savings initiatives, professional services were impacted by the reduction in legal expenses of $5.7 million for the quarter. Somewhat offsetting these decreases of expenses was an increase in depreciation and amortization expense of $5.2 million or 25.1% to $25.9 million primarily due to the acceleration of certain useful lives following a fourth-quarter 2004 review of depreciation policies.

Quarter-Over-Quarter Financial Highlights

Compared to the second quarter of 2005, third-quarter revenues, less Section 31 fees<sup>1</sup>, increased 0.4% or $1.2 million. Investment and other income increased by $10.6 million or 76.9% primarily due to additional fine income recognized during third-quarter 2005. Trading fees decreased by $5.2 million or 13.7% to $32.6 million as NYSE average daily volume decreased by 2.0%. In addition, a one-time reimbursement during the third quarter 2005 and certain pricing caps being met by members resulted in the decrease in trading fees. Data-processing fees decreased by $3.7 million or 7.7% to $44.1 million as a result of decreased third-party usage of services provided by SIAC. A decline in market-information fees of $3.3 million or 7.1% to $43.0 million was due to a decrease in NYSE share of trades from 89.0% to 86.7%.

Expenses decreased by $14.1 million or 5.5% quarter over quarter. While expenses were down generally, professional services, systems and related support and general and administrative costs were the main drivers of the decrease. Professional services decreased by $4.6 million or 12.8% as a result of a $4.5 million reduction in legal expenses. Systems and related support decreased by $2.9 million or 9.2% due to continued cost-savings initiatives across the organization. General and administrative expenses decreased by $3.1 million or 17.5% during the third quarter 2005 as compared to the second quarter primarily due to reduced advertising spending. Fourth quarter expenses, however, are expected to increase, primarily due to increased legal expenses.

Income Taxes

The effective consolidated income tax rate for the third quarter ended September 30, 2005 was 38.1%, up from 34.3% from the previous quarter. The increase is a result of the items that impact the effective tax rate, such as municipal interest, having a reduced effect on the increase of income before taxes for the quarter. For the third quarter of 2004, the NYSE had a tax benefit of $71 thousand as a result of the elimination of non-taxable items from income before taxes.

Capital

As of September 30, 2005, total members' equity was $825.2 million and equity per member having distributive rights equaled $604,000.
