3. Reasons for the estimated loss in the interim results

In the first half of 2014, demand for petrochemicals in China remained sluggish and petrochemical prices weakened. In turn, prices of the Group's major petrochemical products, including PX, butadiene, ethylene glycol and benzene dropped significantly, widening the loss in the petrochemical sector. Meanwhile, due to an exchange loss arising from the depreciation of the RMB in the first half of 2014, in contrast to the constant appreciation of the RMB last year, it resulted in a corresponding increase in the Group's financial costs. In addition, the Group's crude oil processing volume declined in the first half of the year as compared to the same period of the previous year due to factors such as market conditions and the balance of materials supply for upstream and downstream operations which, to some extent, negatively affected the profit of the Group's refining sector.

The forecasts above represent preliminary estimates. Specific and accurate financial figures will be disclosed in the 2014 interim report to be officially announced by the Company. Investors are advised to pay attention to investment risks.
