Dear Shareholder:

During the Annual Shareholders Meeting held on June 22, 2005, some owners of common stock expressed concern that Correlant Communications, Inc. (the Company) had not been able to find a business venture, business model or investment to pursue that was consistent with the Company's stated purpose. These shareholders, through their representative, expressed a desire for the Company to either explore another business opportunity or consider dissolution. The Company, indeed, has been exploring other opportunities in the consumer electronics industry but, as yet, has not found a suitable venture or investment that was, at the same time, conservative insofar as the risk factors were concerned.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors on July 18, 2005, in which seven of the nine elected board members participated, the Board took into consideration these shareholder suggestions. The Board heard from the Company's president, Sean Wang, who provided information on the Company's efforts to enter into another business venture or investment with none that management believed was conservative from a risk perspective. The Board then considered whether it would be appropriate for the Company to dissolve and distribute its approximately $18 million in liquid assets. After due consideration, the Board determined that it be deemed advisable in the Board's judgment that the Company should be dissolved and passed a resolution to that effect. The Board, therefore, has called a Special Meeting of Shareholders for the purpose of taking action on the Board's resolution to dissolve.

Most shareholders are interested, of course, as to how the liquidation will proceed and what disbursements will be made. The Board's proposal to liquidate must be approved by a majority vote of the preferred shareholders voting as a single class, as well as a majority vote of all the shareholders, both common and preferred. If the proposal is approved, the Company will cause a notice of dissolution to be filed with the State of Delaware. That, however, is just the beginning of the process. The Company must begin the process known as a wind down. Fortunately, that should not take very long. Since the Company has sufficient capital to pay its debts, that task must be undertaken. Fortunately, there are only two significant debts. The Company has a lease on a large printer that cannot be broken and must be paid off, either now or over time. The payoff sum is $28,440. In addition, the Company is paying $473 per month for a storage facility in which old (i.e. 486 processors) computer equipment is being stored. The data on the hard drives needs to be duplicated whereupon the computers can, perhaps, be donated to a charity and the space can be released. In addition, there will be accounting, legal and administrative fees incurred to wind down the remaining business operations. For these items Company management will decide on a suitable reserve.

Edgar Filing: OPTA CORP - Form 8-K

Independent auditors for the Company will also have to complete an audit, pay taxes and file papers with Delaware. Finally, there will be a minor amount of legal fees to be paid. Once the reserve is determined, which should take no more than a week, distributions can begin.

As set forth in the Company's Certificate of Incorporation, in the event of any voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Company, wherein the aggregate proceeds exceed the Preferred Liquidation Value, preferred shareholders shall be paid in full according to their liquidation preference. By way of example, after taking a reserve of a few hundred thousand dollars into account and after paying the preferred shareholders their preference, we are estimating a common shareholder distribution of approximately 8 cents per share. While we wish it were more, the Company has no choice but to discharge the obligations to the preferred shareholders whose investments and agreements predated the issuance of the common shares to the current shareholders.

Another issue worthy of disclosure is the request by the majority shareholder, Opta Corporation, to receive a loan, in effect an advance, of $5 million once the shareholders approve the dissolution. That sum represents less than half of Opta's anticipated distribution. Moreover, for the week or two that it will take to commence distributions, Opta will pay the highest rate of interest currently being earned by the Company on the investments of its liquid assets. Thus, neither the Company nor the shareholders can be harmed by the implementation of this very short-term loan.

If you have any questions or need clarification on any matter in connection with the Company's dissolution, please feel free to email me at seanwang@optaco.com or tomgong@optaco.com

I wish you all good luck in your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

/s/ Sean Wang

President

would be convertible on the record date for the vote. Only holders of record of Common and Preferred Shares at the close of business on June 30, 2005, are entitled to vote at the Special Meeting. On June 30, 2005, the Company had outstanding 18,809,618 Common Shares and 1,600,000 Series A Preferred Shares, 250,000 Series B Preferred Shares, 470,000 Series C Preferred Shares and 10,000 Series D Preferred Shares. The presence in person or by proxy of the holders of a majority of the shares entitled to vote at any special meeting of shareholders shall constitute a quorum which is necessary for the transaction of business at the Special Meeting.

PROPOSAL 1: DISSOLUTION OF THE COMPANY

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors on July 18, 2005, in which seven of the nine elected board members participated, the Board took into consideration the recommendation of certain shareholders at the Annual Shareholders Meeting that either the company promptly seek a business venture in which to invest and develop or if no appropriate venture could be found, determine whether it is appropriate for the Company to dissolve and distribute its approximately $18 million in liquid assets. The participating board members received a special report from the Company's President, Sean Wang, which was to the same effect as the report he submitted to the Shareholders at the Annual Shareholders Meeting. In essence, the Company, notwithstanding the retaining of several independent business consultants, was unable to find a suitable business venture that had a conservative risk component that the Board would consider for the investment of the Company's assets. After due consideration, the Board determined that it be deemed advisable in the Board's judgment that the Company should be dissolved and passed a resolution to that effect. The Board, therefore, ordered that a notice of this Special Meeting of Shareholders be mailed to all shareholders for the purpose of taking action at the Special Meeting on the Board's resolution to dissolve.

As set forth in the Certificate of Incorporation of the Company, in the event of any voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Company wherein the aggregate proceeds exceed the Preferred Liquidation Value, preferred shareholders shall be paid in full according to their liquidation preference. The following is a summary of the total outstanding shares of preferred shares and their liquidation preference:

	Total # of Shares Outstanding	Liquidating Value	Preferred Liquidation Value
Preferred A	1,600,000	$1.50 per share	$ 2,400,000
Preferred B	250,000	$4.00 per share	$ 1,000,000
Preferred C	500,000	$5.00 per share	$ 2,500,000
Preferred D	10,000	$1000.00 per share	$ 10,000,000
Total	2,360,000		$ 15,900,000

As of June 30, 2005, Correlant had approximately $18 million in cash. After the payment of liquidation preferences, the Company will have about $2 million (minus a reserve to be determined) to be distributed evenly among all (common and preferred) shareholders. Currently the Company has 18,809,618 outstanding common shares. The Company will set aside a reasonable reserve for expenses related to the dissolution. At some point when it is clear that the remaining funds in reserve are no longer needed, they will be distributed to all shareholders. It is anticipated that the first distribution to all shareholders, after the preferred shareholders are paid their preferential distribution, will be approximately 8 cents per share.

If the shareholders approve this Resolution, a certificate of dissolution will be executed and filed with the State of Delaware. Immediately thereafter, the Company will commence a wind down of the remaining business functions. Since the Company ceased business operations in March of 2004, the only two matters remaining are the payment of an equipment lease and a lease for a Company storage facility. The Company's management does not expect any claims against the Company and none are pending. Therefore, the Company will prepare a schedule of asset distribution in accordance with the Preferred Shareholder Agreements and the Company's Certificate of Incorporation. These funds will be distributed as soon as possible with a calculation and presentation of the entire asset distribution. However, it is prudent for the Company to withhold a reserve for the purpose of handling any unanticipated matters that should arise until a suitable time period elapses. The amount of that reserve has yet to be determined but it is likely to be a few hundred thousand dollars.

In the absence of instructions to the contrary, the proxy holders will vote the shares represented by proxy in favor of the Resolution to dissolve the Company.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS RECOMMENDS A VOTE FOR THE PROPOSAL THAT THE COMPANY BE DISSOLVED, ITS REMAINING DEBTS DISCHARGED AND ITS ASSETS DISTRIBUTED TO ALL SHAREHOLDERS. IF YOU CHECK THE LINE THAT STATES CORRELANT BOARD OF DIRECTORS, YOU ARE, IN EFFECT, VOTING FOR THE PROPOSAL.

GENERAL

The Company will pay all of the costs of preparing, assembling and mailing the form of proxy, Proxy Statement and other materials which may be sent to the shareholders in connection with this solicitation, as well as any costs of soliciting proxies in the accompanying form. Solicitation will be made through the mail, in person, or by telecommunications, by regularly employed officers and other employees of the Company, who will receive no additional compensation for performing such functions. The Company's Board of Directors does not know of any matters to be presented at the Meeting other than the matters set forth herein. If any other business should come before the Meeting, the persons named in the enclosed form of Proxy will vote such Proxy as determined by the Board of Directors.
