INCO NEWS RELEASE

INCO ANNOUNCES FURTHER EXTENSION OF ITS
OFFER FOR FALCONBRIDGE LIMITED

PROVIDES UPDATE ON REGULATORY CLEARANCES
REQUIRED TO PROCEED WITH ITS OFFER

WEBCAST OF CONFERENCE CALL ON THIS UPDATE
TO BE HELD TODAY AT 8:30 A.M. (TORONTO TIME)

Toronto, February 21, 2006 -- Inco Limited (TSX, NYSE:N) announced today that, based upon the results of recent discussions with competition authorities in the United States and Europe, it plans to extend the date that its offer to acquire all of the common shares of Falconbridge Limited (TSX:FAL.LV, NYSE:FAL) will remain open for acceptance from February 28, 2006 to June 30, 2006. This extension is intended to provide additional time for the competition authorities to complete their review of the pending transaction.

Inco intends to mail a formal notice of extension to Falconbridge common shareholders by late February 2006. Receipt of required regulatory clearances is one of the remaining conditions of Inco's offer to be met in order to enable Inco to be in a position to take up and pay for Falconbridge common shares tendered.

Inco and Falconbridge have supplied information and data in response to requests from the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) and competition authorities in Europe to enable these authorities to be in a position to determine whether they see any competition concerns associated with this transaction and, if they did, whether a remedy would be required to gain their clearance. Inco and Falconbridge understand and appreciate the time and effort that these authorities have devoted to their required review processes.

The DOJ has indicated to the companies that it is still in the process of determining whether the pending transaction can be cleared without the need for any remedy. Inco and Falconbridge are also continuing to work with the DOJ on a potential remedy that Inco had indicated in October 2005 it was prepared to accept if the DOJ ultimately were to determine that such a remedy were required in order to resolve any of its competition concerns. It is currently projected that the DOJ will advise Inco and Falconbridge on its conclusions with respect to these two areas sometime in the next two months. Meetings have also been held with the European Commission (Commission) team reviewing the transaction. The Commission is expected to advise Inco by February 24, 2006 whether it will clear the transaction or have this transaction proceed to a second phase review under the applicable rules and regulations for this phase. If the Commission were to move into a second phase review, this phase would involve the continuation of the Commission's review for a period of up to 90 business days. During that period, Inco would continue to work with the Commission in its evaluation of the transaction. In the event that the Commission were to conclude in this second phase that it has any competition concerns, Inco would intend to work with the Commission to determine what remedy would be required to address such concerns and clear the transaction either before or by the end of this phase.

Inco has agreed with Falconbridge that, pursuant to an amendment to the October 10, 2005 support agreement entered into covering the pending acquisition, Inco will extend its offer through one or more additional extensions to early August 2006 if the regulatory clearance condition of Inco's offer referred to above is not met by the time currently provided for under this agreement. Falconbridge has agreed that any such extended expiry date of Inco's offer can be accelerated in the event that regulatory clearances are obtained earlier.

Inco and Falconbridge continue to believe that, given the operation of the market dynamics themselves, there are no significant competitive issues and the transaction should proceed without a remedy. If, however, the DOJ and the Commission, in reaching their final conclusions on this transaction, ultimately decide that there are competitive issues, Inco and Falconbridge believe that any unresolved concerns can be addressed by a mutually acceptable remedy that would be worked out with these authorities.

"The combination of Inco and Falconbridge continues to represent a great transaction for Inco and Falconbridge shareholders," said Scott Hand, Chairman and CEO of Inco. "Our two companies remain fully committed to this deal."
