PRESS RELEASE

Amsterdam, 2 May 2008

ING to Acquire CitiStreet for EUR 578 million (US $900 million); ING Moves to Number Three in Defined Contribution Business

ING Group announced today that it has reached an agreement to acquire CitiStreet LLC, one of the premier retirement plan and benefit service and administration organizations in the US defined contribution marketplace. CitiStreet is jointly owned by Citigroup, Inc. and State Street Corporation. The combined operations will make ING the third-largest defined contribution business in the US based on assets under management (AUM) and assets under administration (AUA) with EUR 224 billion in AUM and AUA (US $351 billion), and the second largest based on plan participants, with more than 14 million plan participants.

Michel Tilmant, Chairman of the Executive Board of ING Group said, "This acquisition is consistent with ING's focused strategy to support the strong organic growth of the Group with suitable add-on acquisitions aligned with its core banking, investments, life insurance and retirement services growth businesses.

Under the terms of the agreement, ING will acquire 100 percent of CitiStreet for a total consideration of EUR 578 million (US $900 million). The deal will be financed entirely from existing internal resources. The proposed purchase will have no impact on ING's ongoing share buy-back program.

Tom McInerney, ING Executive Board member and CEO for ING Insurance Americas said, "This acquisition significantly expands our existing footprint in our retirement services businesses in the US and will help drive long-term growth in the US retirement savings marketplace. CitiStreet's impressive scale and exceptional reputation in the mid- and large-corporate markets, complements ING's focus on the small- and mid-corporate, government, and education markets. ING's financial strength, investment management capabilities, retirement income offerings, and strong global brand make ING an ideal partner for CitiStreet's existing plan sponsors and plan participants.

CitiStreet is a provider of recordkeeping and administrative services, counseling and advice programs, and other benefit plan services primarily in the US. It has approximately 3,700 employees with the majority located in the US. The transaction also includes a defined benefit/pension business in the US, a health and welfare (H&W) business in the US, and a retirement services business in Australia.

Kathleen Murphy, CEO, ING US Wealth Management said, "This acquisition brings together two customer-centric cultures that are committed to making retirement saving and other benefits delivery easier for plan sponsors and plan participants. With ING's excellence and leadership in the education, small employer, government and health care markets, and CitiStreet's excellence and leadership across all employer markets, we are creating a new value proposition that will span the full spectrum of the defined contribution and benefits servicing marketplace.

Furthermore, in a converging defined contribution environment, ING's and CitiStreet's key stakeholders will be well-served by a leading retirement savings provider that is committed to addressing the evolving needs of investors.

The acquisition will provide significant operational synergies for ING and is expected to be EPS accretive by 2010, excluding merger-related expenses and the amortization of customer-based intangible assets.

This transaction is subject to customary closing conditions and is expected to be closed in the third quarter of 2008.
