Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition

On February 28, 2008, BearingPoint, Inc. (the Company) issued a press release announcing its financial results for the year ended 2007 and providing 2008 guidance. A copy of the press release is furnished as Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report.

Net revenue and free cash flow are presented in the press release, which are non-GAAP financial measures. For purposes of Regulation G, a non-GAAP financial measure is a numerical measure of a company's performance, financial position or cash flows that excludes or includes amounts that are not normally excluded or included in the most directly comparable measure calculated and presented in accordance with GAAP. In this regard, GAAP refers to generally accepted accounting principles in the United States.

The Company believes that it is useful to investors to be informed of net revenue because it represents the actual amount paid by our clients specifically for professional services. The most directly comparable financial measure in accordance with GAAP is gross revenue. Net revenue is derived by reducing the components of gross revenue that consist of other direct contract expenses, which are costs that are directly attributable to client engagements. These costs include items such as computer hardware and software, travel expenses for professional personnel and costs associated with subcontractors.

The Company believes that free cash flow is a useful measure because it allows better understanding and assessment of its ability to meet debt service requirements and the amount of recurring cash generated from operations after expenditures for fixed assets. Free cash flow does not represent the Company's residual cash flow available for discretionary expenditures as it excludes certain mandatory expenditures such as repayment of maturing debt. Free cash flow is a non-GAAP financial measure. The most directly comparable financial measure calculated in accordance with GAAP is net cash provided by operating activities. Free cash flow is calculated by subtracting purchases of property and equipment from cash provided by operating activities.
